Sunday, Dec. 30th—Psalm 105:1-22.

"He hath remembered His covenant for ever."—The faithfulness of God has been the theme of His people's thanksgiving throughout the nges. That which He has promised He will perform. His not the year now fast speeding into eternity given proof snew, that, in spite of our changeableness, and even of our unfaithfulness, "He abideth faithful!" Well anay we to-day, "Give thanks unto the Lord" and "make known His deeds among the people." E ARE swiftly nearing the end of another year. As we look back over the months that have passed since we entered into 1928 does the realization come to us that we have spent our time to the best advantage, or have we feelings of regret for wasted hours and opportunities, for follies and sins sayet unrepented?

How true it is that the sands of time are sinking, that the hour glass of our lives is yearly running lower and lower. As the old hymn goes:

"A few more years shall roll, A few more seasons come, And we shall be with those at to die, but after death comes the judgment. What about our eternity? Shall we spend it with the blest or be among those who are doomed to everlasting shame and contempt? To those who have hitherto trifled with time, and spent their days in pleasure, in sin and in neglect of God, the voice of the Spirit cries, "Oh, to-day is time accepted, To-morrow you may call in vain." Heed the call of the Spirit and resolve that you will in future live your life for God.

solve that you will in future live your life for God.
Do not make the mistake of calculating in advance the 365 days of the New Year, and imagine that you have plenty of time to spare. Three hundred days! Nobody has a right to expect that he will live for three days. Long before the year is out, indeed, before it has well begun, you may be summoned to give an account to the Great Judge of all the earth for the deeds done in the body. Some people spend their lives in dreaming. Not only do they pass hours in idle reverie, but weeks and months and years. "Hitherto I have been dreaming of doing." said a famous man, when long past his youth, and only by the most strenus efforts did he manage to make up for lost time.

What an example many busy men of the world are in this respect. It was said of one of them: "One of his characteristics was his respect for time. Hc never wasted spare minutes." He himself wrote: "A man who dares to waste his time does not know the value of life." Certainly he does not. Nor the value of the opportunities which life affords for the preparation of oneself and others for that eternal world which lies beyond the bounds of time. How quickly, how seriously, each one would pass from one duty to another If he acting upon its momentary dependence, as if their time were to endure for ever, as if 'to-morrow were to be as to-day, and much more abundant.'

And here, in fact, we have an individual concern. If God marks time, as His Word assures us He does, we must mark time also, or accounts will not at last agree. If time flies, we must improve it, and fly with and if we do not, we must smart for our neglect. Let 't's meditate as the words of the Saviour, lunct work while it is day; the 'night cometh when no man can work.' Let us take St. Paul as our example in this particular. His was the most laborious human effort to improve time to be found on record. He spent no part of his days in curious enquiries or knotty speculations, much less in knotty speculations, do teach, to warm, to persuade, and to urge in-

First of all you must be in earnest about your soul's Salvation. You must realize the enormity of your sin, and be willing to put it away for ever. You must cease to do evil.

This would be impossible had you to depend upon your own strength, but this is not so. The Holy Spirit, by whose aid you see yourself a sinner, will lead you to cast yourself at the foot of that Cross, and cry to Jesus to save you.

The same blessed Spirit will help you to exercise faith in the atonement of Jesus Christ for your sins, and, further, to claim pardon through the Blood. He will lead you into the assurance of Salvation, which will be a new source of strength to you. Being born of God you will begin to live a new life, and He will help you daily to grow in grace.

grasped fully the fact that his stay on earth was limited!

How wicked the action of those who live "to pass the time away." Thousands spend the days of their quickly-passing years in giddiness and frivoility. What a reckoning they will be called to make! Each of the days they have murdered will come to life again, each stained with the blood of their wasted opportunities.

"God requireth that which is past." and cvery day of life passed thoughtlessly away will have to be accounted for before His Bar.

"Your time is not your own; it belongs to God, to religion, to mankind," says a writer. "Time is a gift of God," says another, "a talent to be improved, end by us to burged with the solemnity and zeal becoming the subject in the humble hope of bringing conviction to the mind of some who may have been

This must be our immediate course; and may the Fount of all Grace assist us to be faithful to Christ, to souls, and to ourselven." This very day, therefore, resolve og very ourself to God afresh. With Him, do as much henceforth as is possible in every single day.

Every day let us seek a fuller life of Holiness, a life lived still more closely to Christ, and more completely used up in wide-reaching usefulness. Work, oh, work this year every day as hard as you can! A crowded year of Soul-saving activity is better than a century of workly uselessness. What if our physical strength be spent and life in blaining burshous common the conting year the most memorable of our lives. Let us see the conting year the most memorable of our lives. Let us see to it that its every day has a golden record to be written down in the Lamb's Book of Life.

Having had a sum of money left her, a young Englishwoman decided to try her fortune overseas, and boarded a vessel bound for Australia. Could she have known that three years from the day she stepped from her native shore she would step into a Salvation Army Home, she would have shrunk back with horror.

Emering a situation in Australia as a domestic help she eventually rose to the position of nurse, and for a time felt entirely satisfied. But a dark cloud arose in her sky, and the now sorely distressed giri was at a loss to know what to do. She felt that no one must know of her trouble, and yet she was in desperate need of help.

THE YEAR IN RETROSPECT

A Review of The Army's Activities in the Canada East Territory During Nineteen Twenty-Eight

"From Newfoundland to The Great Lakes People and Affairs have been Stirring"

THE YEAR that is dying has been a busy one for The Army in Canada East. From the Territorial Commander to the latest recruit, from the veterans to the Young People, and from Newfoundland to the Great Lakes people and affairs have been stirring.

The New Year found all the troops on the alert for the opening gun of the "Bigger and Better" Compaign. Plans were well laid, enthusiasm was high, and Salvationists of the Territory were a unit in their determination to make the Campaign all that the slogan "Bigger and Better" suggested. The poins taken and the efforts made were abundantly rewarded, and a message of thanks from the Commissioner at the close of the Campaign contains the gratifying information that there had been approximately 1,700 adults and 1,000 young people at the inercy-seat, and that between four and five hundred mew Soldiers would be added to the fighting forces of the Territory.

An event of great importance which marked the early part of the year was the Territory's splendid gift of Officers to The Army Mission Field. Major Adams and Adjutant Gregory farewelled for Trinidad, Adjutants Betts and Fairhurst for Kenya, and Captain Mason for Java. These comrodes were given a send-off marked by very warm expressions of regard from their Canadian comrades, and information received has shown how worthly they are upholding the high traditions of Army Officers on Missionary service. As the months have traditions of Army Officers on Missionary service. As the months have left our shores—Commandant and Mrs. Bowers for the Gold Coast, West Africa.

Departed Heroes

The disaster at the Hollinger Mine, Timmins, cost many lives and dark-cued any homes, but the clouds of sorrow were illumined by many rays of heroism, of which none were brighter than emanded from the self-sacrifice of Candidate William Lindson, who hald down his life m an effort to save some of his workmates. Throughout Canada our comfade's splendid spirit of devotion to the highest ideals was leaded in the press, and while the life of service as an Officer, to which he looked forward, was so tragically cut short, only eternity will reveal the results of his sacrifice for others.

As usual the Self-Denial Effort was the subject of a great deal of thought and organization, and again the people of Canada East responded nobly to the appeal, with the result that another victory was placed on record, with an increase on last period of the press.

The Territory suffered the loss of during the pressure of the result of the speak of the pressure of the service of th

Reinforcements

Reinforcements

On June '25th, the "Dauntless" Session of Cadets received their commissions from the Territorial Commander at an enthusiastic gathering in Massey Hell, marked with that glad exuberance so characteristic of Cadets. With magnificent faith and devotion these scores of young men and women stepped out into an unknown path and to face battles, the nature of which they understood but dimly, strong and happy in their confidence that God and The Army would see them through, and that their great ambition, a life of uscfulness, would be achieved.

The arrival of these reinforcements at their first appointments syn

Salvationists of all ranks throughout the Territory Indied the announcement with delight, and in the months which have thus far elapsed there have been many splendid reports of things undertaken and achieved in the spirit of the Founder. With Winter before us and "The siege of Canada East" in prospect, we are looking forward with confidence to very substantial advances during the remainder of the Campaign.

Among the opening engagements of the Campaign was the Newfoundland Congress, conducted by Lt.-Commissioner Maxwell. After holding meetings at several points in the Maringe Provinces on his way East, the Commissioner led a five-day Compaign in St. John's, including public gatherings attended by many prominent people and Officers' Councils. Comrades gathered from all parts of the Island Dominion, the attendance at all meetings was very large, and a wonderful spirit prevailed, as evidenced by the splendid number which knelt at the mercy-seat.

By this time Summer was upon us with its joys for some and distress for others. Life-Saving Scouts and Guards gathered information and health at various Camps throughout the Territory, while several hundred children whose home surroundings were unfavorable were given a holiday in the country which could not be otherwise than beneficial.

Congress Gatherings

Congress Gatherings

With the holiday season over, the big event on every Salvationist's horizon was the Territorial Congress. The leader this year was Commissioner Whatmore, one of the most widely experienced and dearly loved Officers in The Army. The public meetings were marked by splendid crowds, much enthusiaam and many seekers, while the Officers' Councils were times of blessing which will continue to hear fruit in the lives of those who attended.

Preliminary Congress Meetings were conducte in Montreal by Lt. Commissioner Marwell—a big series of gatherings attended with much blessing. Commissioner and Mrs. Whatmore arrived from England in time to participate in the events.

The Maritime Congress, conducted at St. John by the Territorial Commander, was also an occasion of rich outpourings of the Spirit and many seekers knelt at the Cross.

The activities of our Leaders have been incessant. Beginning with a New Year Campaign at Hamilton I, the Commissioner has conducted meetings through the length and breadth of the Territory; week-ends at many places, visits to the prisons, Bandsmen's Councils, Young People's Days at Divisional centres, the Good Friday neetings, which were on a larger scale this year than ever before and included a united enrolment of Soldiers following the "Rigger" and Better" Campaign, Graduation of Nurses and welcome to the Centenary Session of Cadets.

A new venture was a motor tour in the London Division, by means of which The Army's message of Salvation was carried to new people in a novel and unusual manner. Mrs. Maxwell has also been busy, especially with affairs for the benefit of

The Chief Secretary has been constantly on the wing, and beside supporting the Commissioner in a number of his principal engagements has conducted many important gatherings in different parts of the Territory

New Properties

Substantial advances have been made in the way of new properties. Hamilton I and Montreal IV Corps have moved into new and commodious Gitadels; Chatham, Ontario, has a new Cltadel almost ready for opening; the corner-stone of a new building for historic Lippincott Corps has just been laid; while plans are well advanced for an up-to-date property for the Industrial branch of the Men's Social work in Torento.

Special revival campaigns by Major Kendall and Field-Major Urquhart have brought many souts into the Kingdom.

A change of Sub-Territorial Commanders for Newfoundland went into effect on the retirement of Lt.-Colonel Moore, and Lt.-Colonel Dickerson now leads the forces of our sister Dominion.

In addition to the usual Easter and Christmas numbers of "The War Cry," special issues appeared featuring the Social Work an well as Army operations in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland respective-

Missionaries, home on furlough, have conducted meetings at many places, which have had a very high educational value, as well as helping to keep alive the spirit of interest in non-Christian lands.

Salvationists in Canada East have shared with their comrades everywhere the sorrow and anxiety caused by the General's prolonged illness, and as the year closes we continue to wait before the Throne of Grace on behalf of our belowed International Leader, and with faith in God and faith in The Army we renew the old pledge that "The war will go on till the world is possessed."

On Friday night, December 14th, Colonel Henry, the Chief Secretary, with Colonel Taylor, the Field Secretary, conducted the installation of Brigadier Macdonald as Divisional Commander of the Hamilton Division at the Hamilton I Citadel.
Following the opening song, and field-Major Ellsworth's prayer for God's blessing on the meeting and its purpose, Staff-Captain Riches was called on to speak, and he asked the loyal support of the Divisional leaders. Major Watson, for the Social Staff, promised that they would do all in their power to help Brigadier and Mrs. Macdonald extend the Kingdom of Christ in the Hamilton Division. Mrs. Field-Major Ellsworth testified to the high quality of the women Officers of the Division.
Colonel Taylor told of knowing the Brigadier and his wife many years ago, he knew their worth and their works and could give an epitome of them in two wards—they were "pure gold."

gadier and Mrs. Macdonald

The Chief Secretary read the Scripture portion and impressively gave a solemn charge to the new Divisional lenders to maintain the standards of The Army, to uphold its principles, its doctrines, its displine. They should, he said, not only hold the line, but make avances into the enemy's territory. He felt assured that they would do this. Mrs. Macdonald said she did not feel strange despite the fact that this was their first term of service in this part of the Territory, as she had already met a number of true comrades who had fought with them in other appointments. They were going to put all they had into this appointment believing it to be Godgiven.

appointment outering it to be given.

Beigadier Macilonald, when called upon, said he and his wife had come in God's name and would do all in their power to be a blessing to one and all and to extend the Kingdom.

The Band and Songsters both rendered apprapriate pieces. Major White closed in prayer.

THE ARMY SPIRIT IN LATVIA

Touching Sacrifices Made to Aid Army's Work

Says Brigadier Johanson in an interesting communication to hand:
"We have just concluded our successful Harvest Effort. The Harvest in Latvia this season has been practically a failure awing the heavy rainfall and consequent floods. Though there were difficulties in the way, the Officers and Soldiers entered most heartily into the Effort, and as the outcome of their hard work and the kindness of friends, the Effort has been crowned with victory. "There have been some touching Effort has been crowned with victory. "There have been some touching incidents during the various campaigns. At one Corps a man who has suffered much loss of cattle through the floods decided to try and sell a cow, and if successful, he promised to give God a tenth from the income. He was not a Salvationist but knew of our work. He sold the cow and gave a tenth of the proceeds to help The Army.

gave a tenth of the proceeds to help The Army.
"Another case is that of a woman who was praying that God would help her and fulfil His purpose in a matter relating to her daily life. Her prayer was answered, and as a thank-offering she brought a gener-cus gift to the Altar.

ous gift to the Altar.

"A poor old lady came to the Headquarters one day. So poor did she appear that she looked as if she had come to beg. Imagine our surprise when she brought out of its wrapping a gentleman's hat in excellent condition, and said: 'Please take this for your Effort; it is all have to give, but I treasure it very much.' She then said that she had had two sons, who were both killed in the war, and the lat belonged to one of them. She had carefully preserved it ever since. 'Now I feel I should give it to the Lord,' she said."

A HAPPY SEQUEL To a Good Story from Norway

To a Good Story from Norway

"In a previous dispatch," writes
Colonel Blomberg, Chief Secretary for Norway, "I told of a man in Larvik who was in such desperate circumstances that he was determined to take his life. He decided that he would first attend a Salvation Army meeting during the campaign which Brigadier Iversen was holding in the town. He went and got converted.

"This man is a wonderful trophy, and now he works as a Soldier of the Corps. At Commissioner Larsson's welcome meeting in Larska few weeks ago, the man's wife gave herself to God. He has now got good employment and his future prospects are bright.
"At an Officers' Demonstration,

are bright.

"At an Officers' Demonstration, held in Ilamar, the Officer of Trysil Corps told of a cheering incident. When she was visiting one of the Outposts, a meeting was held in a farmer's house. The place was so crowded that the Officer could not do any 'fishing.' But a lad who had been deeply impressed went home from the meeting and asked his sister, who was a Salvationist, to pray for him, with the result that he got saved and some few days later ted his brother to Christ. Thus the work is carried on in the lonely country districts where God is setting His send town the devotion of our countries."

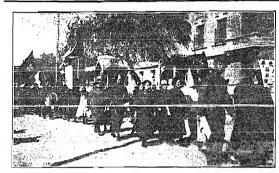

Golden Opportunities on the Gold Coast

Salvationists Heartily Welcomed Everywhere by Native Chiefs as Well as Humblest Subjects

Veil as running are the records of Missionary work done by our comrades in West Africa. Following the inspiring and graphic account previously to hand from Colonic Couter the Territorial Commander, and which concerned the Nigerian areas of the West African Territory, comes heartening news again from Major Alexander Thompson, Divisional Officer for the Gold Coast, of what is being done in that colony. It would appear that everywhere The Army is most heartily welcomed, especially by kerosene boxes, we had a splendid meeting. Here I commissioned several local Officers.

"Early the next morning, with another Officer, I started off for one of our Catellie. En route we held Open-nir meetings in a village and then commenced trekking through the bush until we came to a river. One of the comrades took off his hat, coat and singlet, dived in and swam across, returning with a primitive cance made out of a tree-trunk, and we soon landed safely on the other side. We continued our walk through

Delegates to the Congress Gatherings in Peking setting out from Territorial Headquarters for a march through the city the native populations, from the chiefs themselves down to the humblest of their subjects. The following extracts and incidents are taken from the lengthy and interesting record to hand:

from the lengthy and interesting record to hand:

"Loading up the car," says the Major, "me started for Appam, and after journeying a few miles we got into very deep mud and could not move. After about two hours hard work a crowd of men came along and got us going, much to our relief, and we were soon in Appam, where Captain Kuwor and a crowd of his people were on the lookout for us.

"We had a grand march into the place, but owing to our exertions in trying to move the car we were compelled to rest awhile. After this, in the cool of the evening, we marched with our comrades around the town loiding short meetings, inviting the people and enrolling a number of Salvationists.

"We left next morning for Agoha people and enrolling a number of Salvationists.

"We left next morning for Agoha Swedru, when Ensign Sully took another direction to visit other Corps, and I am inserting here some of his travel notes:

"I commenced my three days in the district with an Open-air in the main street of Swedru, where we had a rousing time, many of the native storekeepers coming and listening. All our comrades were very willing to sing and testify, even a boy of twelve gave a definite testimony of Salvation. It was very impressive to see these people knieling down in prayer for the unconverted. Inside the temporary Hall made in baubins with its corrugated-iron roaf, and with the corrugated-iron roaf, and the bush, and eventually arrived at Ndslbhen. The Chief, who is a Salvationist, met us and escorted us all to his palace, and in the Palaver Hall we held a short meeting. Afterward we proceeded to the centre of the village for a short Open-air, and then returned for the Dedication, Enrolment and Commission service. Afterwards, we tresked back to the car and to Swedru.

"In the afternoon we went to Asuboa to arrange for the next day's meetings. At night we held an Open-air, and also a meeting in the Hall that the comrades are still busy erecting. At Essina, our comrades were soon on the scene with Flag and drum and we had a good Open-air. I mentioned something of The Army's work in England, and a native dressed in European attire came forward and corroborated what I had said, adding, "The Salvation Army is the cest religion in the world." He stated that he had been in England sixteen years and produced a photo of Commandaut and Mrs. Phillips and the comrades of the Dewsbury Corps. This is rather remarkable, as Assini soilly a small village and is what is termed here as "far bush."

"Arriving back at Manso, we had tea and then held a final Open-air. As I was concluding this, news was brought that a sister-comrade was dying, and so the Captain and I went to her home but could do very little except pray as no one had any liveled of the nature of her malady. There is a great field here for medical service,"

AMONG THE CEYLONESE New Territorial Commander Sees Promising Signs of Progress

Promising Signs of Progress
"During the past two months," says Colonel Raja Singhe (Coles) in a dispatch to hand, "I have compassed a good part of the Territory. In six weeks I have done about 1,600 miles by road, and in this small Territory this represents a good deal."

"I was to we had to traverse a road where we encountered a great variety of wild life—jacknis, leopards, derewild boars, snakes and monkeys, these latter by the hundred. But our concern was not the animals we saw, but the people.

The Colonel is arranging to have a large painting of the Founder prepared for the Centenary Celebrations at Slave Island. It will be ready for mounting in the Memorial Hall on the Founder's Birthday. In Kandy, recently, a memorial portant of the late Colonel Weerasooriya was unveiled.

"I reached Oda, but could not hold any meeting owing to there being a Memorial service for the late Omanhene. This was accompanied by the usual gun-firing, drum-beating, daning and, I am sorry to say, gindrinking. We were called at 2 am in order to eatch the early train to Wenchi. Although it was only 6 am when we arrived here, there was a fine crowd of Soldiers to meet us with flags and drums. Soon our baggage was distributed among the comrades, and they marched us, joy-fully singing, for a mile from the station to the village.

"At Wenchi Society our comrades liave erected a really fine Hall.
"The Sergeant-Major here said in his testimony: "When The Army came here I was a drunkard and spent my money in Ju ju and fetish praciees. I was a very poor mand only had a very poor cloth to wear, but now I am converted and have several cloths and also my uniform. I have also been able to purchase the furniture that you see in my house, and clothers for my wife and children, in addition to which and glad to say I have been able to give help to the Hall."

"Next morning we were off carly to Aduasa, where we called on the chief and held a wonderful meeting with the villager. A FTER being wwa, three weeks tottning Corner Brook and Grand Falls Districts, where a series of meetings were conducted with splendid results, Lt.-Colonel Dickerson, Brigadier Walton and Staff-Captain Cornick have just returned to the Hub. The Colonel arrived at Channel from Glace Bay, whither he had been called to confer with the Commissioner on matters relative to the Sub-Territory.

On arrival back at Channel, where Adjutant and Mrs. Kean are stationed, a good meeting was held, the Hall being packed to capacity. The Colonel expressed thanks for the warm reception given him, and there was a ready response to his appeal for a more determined effort to fight sin, many of the Soldiery and comrades coming forward to lay themselves on the Altar for service.

On the second night at Channel the Colonel was joined by the Divisional Commander, Staff-Captain Earle, and a Salvation meeting was conducted which resulted in five surrenders.

Death has visited our Corps and removed a much-loved comrade in the person of Brother Charles Brown at the early age of twenty years. Churlie has been a Soldier for nearly two years, but on November 1st the Death Angel came for him, and we are glad to report that he was ready for the Summons. He was given a real Army funeral, conducted by Commandant and Mrs. Keeping and Lieutenant Thompson, the Corps Officers. A very impressive Memorial service was held on the following Sunday night, when many friends, as well as the Soldiers, spoke of the life of our departed contrade. He was loved by all who knew him and is greatly missed in the Corps as well as the Soldiers, the being the first to break the circle of cight. Our prayers are with the bereaved family, some other members of which are Soldiers.—Mrs. Sturge.

Humbermouth Welcome

Humbermouth Welcome

A united meeting was conducted on the following Saturday night at Humbermouth, when Brigadier Walton and Staff-Captain Cornick reinforced the party. A splendid crowd had gathered to hear the Colonel for the first time. Staff-Captain Earle piloted the meeting and introduced the Colonel and party. Ensign Eason, the Corps Officer, spoke words of welcome on behalf of the Corps. A testimony meeting was conducted by Staff-Captain Cornick, and Brigadier Walton led some new choruses, after which the Colonel in his earnest address passed on the well-known command of the Founder, "Go on, and do even more." A great response was made.

Among the comrades who testified was a man who had travelled seventy-five miles to be present. Brigadier Walton and Staff-Captain Cornick testified of the power of God in their lives, and the Colonel spoke very forcefully. Staff-Captains Cornick and Earle in turn led the Prayer-meeting which resulted in eight souls kneeling at the Cross. On Monday night the Colonel and party and many comrades from Humbermouth visited Curling for a service. Ensign Kennedy, the Corps Officer, extended a warm welcome to the visitors. A bright meeting was piloted by Staff-Captain Earle, several of the comrades testifying to God's dealing with them. One sister said it was through a clipping cut from a paper and sent to her that she was himagin to Christ. Staff-Captain Cornick and Brigadier Walton, in turn, gave expression to what the Lord had done for them. Forty-Two Seekers

Forty-Two Seekers

On Tuesday night one hundred and forty Soldiers and converts gathered at Corner Brook for a united service, the Humbermouth comrades again being present. The Colonel delivered a powerful address. The power of God came upon us, melting the hearts of those stalwart men, many of whom had tears streaming down their faces; others were full of the glory, praising, singing and dancing with joy. Forty-two seekers were registered for Sametification. Corner Brook Corps is second to none in the country and its Soldiery is a credit to The Army.

The party left Corner Brook on the Wednesday, arriving at Deer Lake in time for a service at night. Here Captain Driscoll, the Corps Officer, had arranged a Soldiers' and Conrerts' gathering preceding the Salvation neeting. A great crowd was present for the latter when the Colonel urged the necessity of a forward movement. There was great rejoicing over twenty seekers coming forward for Salvation and Sanctification.

On Saturday night a public welcome meeting was conducted. After the Colonel and party, Band-Sergeant Crocker spoke words of welcome on behalf of the Band, and Bandsman Cuter, the Corps Secretary, on behalf of the Corps.

On Sunday morning a good crowd was present. Brigadier Walton's address rivetted treeff upon the hearts of all present, one man rising to his feet before the Brigadier had finished and making his way to the Altar. Two others tollowed.

Long Service Veterans

A large crowd gathered to hear the Colonel's lecture in the afternoon. In addition to this, two special features of this service were the inauguration of the Life-Saving Chums and the presentation of Long Service Badges to several Local Officers. Grand Falls can boast of a very fine Band and Songster Brigade, which rendered splendid service throughout the day.

At night the Hall was filled again. The Colonel gave an arresting address, and nine souls found Christ. On Monday morning Sergeant-Major Horwood took the party to Bishop's Falls in his motor-car.

Commandant Caines extended a hearty welcome to the visitors, and Staff-Captain Cornick led a red-hot testimony meeting, at the close of the service thirty comrades kneit around the Altar giving themselves afresh to God for service. One soul sought Salvation.

Tuesday morning found the party on their way to Botwood. On their arrival they were met by Command. unt Anthony, the Corps Officer. The welcome meeting at night was well attended. Commandant Anthony warmly welcomed the Colonel and party. The visitors in turn expressed their pleasure in being privileged to meet such a crowd of happy-looking Salvationists and friends. The service was both bright and inspiring and finished with fifteen seekers coming forward.

"BON VOYAGE"

THE COMMISSIONER Says Farewell to Officers at Gathering in Toronto Temple—Recently Retired Comrades are Honored

J UST BEFORE leaving Toronto to attend the High Council convened in Loudon, Eng., the Commissioner met the Officers of Headquarters and a number of Social, Divisional and Training Officers, also the retired Officers living in the city, at a happy and festive gathering in the Temple. There was a threefold object in this assembly. First, it was a Christiana celebration, an occasion for the premotine of closer fellowship and goodcelebration, an occasion for the primoting of closer fellowship and good-will, second, it gave opportunity for extending good wishes to a number of Officers who have recently retired; and hastly it was in the nature of a farewell to our Territorial Leader, to wish him God speed in his important mission

Lient-Colonel Southall, Brigadier Easton, Lieut-Colonel and Mrs. Moore and Field-Major O'Nell were called on to speak and each received a hearty ovation. The memories of Army warfare in Canada that they recalled, stirred their andience to frequent applause. Colonel Southall can look years on Headquarters, while Field-Major O'Neil has spont over 33 years on the Field.

Owing to illness, Brigadler Machamara was mable to be present so a message of affection was sent to her from the gathering.

Colonel Tayler, the Field Secretary, speaking on behalf of the Field Officers, extended good wishes to our retired comrades, saying that they enter into honoraine retirement with the love and esteem of their fellow Officers.

Colonel Henry, the Chief Secretary, speaking on behalf of the Staff Officers, said that it was an inspiration to look on men and women who have done such spleadid nervice and come to reffrement with such a fine spirit of Salvationism and Soldierlike determination to make the best of what opportunities are still hedrer them for Salvationism and Soldierlike determination to make the best of what opportunities are still hedrer them for the high gand blessing others.

Referring them to our bender's forewell, he said that all were confident that Canada Enst would be worthly represented at the High Counell meetings in London.

He assured the Commissioner that he

The Commissioner left Toronto on Wednesday morning, December 19th.
Al Montreal that same night he conducted the installation of Brigadier Burrows, the new Divisional Commander.

He left St. John on Friday, the 21st, sailing on the "Mont Royal."

INTERNATIONAL PARS

All Salvationists will congratulate the Lord Mayor of Portemouth, Honorary Bandmuster J. E. Smith, Jupon his decision to substitute for the customary Civie New Year Ball as Christmas Treat for twelve thousand poor children of the Borough. There is a good deal of distress in Portsmouth, as at many other places, this year, and this netion has been widely eommended in the city.

The White Star Liner "Vedic," which sailed from Liverpool for Australia under The Army Flag some week aga, has arrived at her port of disembarkation.

All the boys and domesties on board have already been placed in suitable situations, and all the families bound for Western and South Australia have been happily settled in positions of promise.

A civic reception given to the "Vedic" passengers at Melbourne was an outstanding success.

A CAPITAL TIME

Experienced in the Capital City During the Week-End Visit of LIEUT.-COMMISSIONER AND MRS. MAXWELL

HE CAPITAL CITY was favored with a visit from our Territorial Leaders, Lt-Commissioner and Mrs. Maxwell, Saturday and Sunday, December 1st and 2nd. On Saturday night the three city Corps united for a Holiness meeting in the No. 1 Citadel.

a Holiness meeting in the No. 1 Citadel.

The first speaker was Lt.-Colonel DesBrisay, who based her remarks on the last line of a song that had been sung in opening, "Faith Triumphant, knowing not defeat or fear." The Male Choir from No. I rendered a very fine selection, laringing in about faith being tried in the furnishment of the Commissioner gave a about taken being created in the fun-nace. The Commissioner gave a powerful address, also on the line of "Faith." We rejoiced to see four souls seeking a deeper work of grace.

United Holiness Meeting

United Holiness Meeting
On Sunday morning the three Corps again united for another Holiness meeting. Our Leader prayed for an outpouring of God's Spirit to be manifest, and truly it was. The Male Choir sang, followed by a Scripture reading by the Commissioner. The No. I Songsters sang very Icelingly "Love's Surrender."

Mrs. Maxwell then gave a very powerful, heart-searching address. As we went into the Prayer-meeting it was a giorious sight to see Bandsemen, Local Officers and Soldiers making their way to the Altar in obedience to God's call. After the benediction had been pronounced a young woman who had been having a great struggle came and yielded her all to God, making a total of fourteen for the morning.

The afternoon meeting started off with a note of praise, Li-chound DesBrisay lining out the opening song, and Staff-Captain Clarke leading in prayer.

In this meeting the Commissioner had a very pleasant duty to perform, that of calling to the platform You ng People's Sergeant-Major Heney, of Ottawa I Corps, and very highly commending him upon the work as a Local Officer of overtwenty years standing, and was pleased to place him upon the Honor Roll. We very much enjoyed a dust by our Leaders, the cherus of which was taken up heartily by the crowd that filled the Citadel. Selections were given by the No. II and III Bands and the No. III Songsters. The Commissioner then gave us a message from the Word of God, and our hearts were stirred as we listened.

listened.

At night we had with us on the platform Major Neate, who is attached to the Department for National Defence, and who kindly entertained our Leaders at his home for supper.

Gloriously Saved

Gloriously Saved

The singing of that grand old song of the Founder's, "Oh, Boundless Salvation," just rung through the crowded Hall, followed by a prayer to this fight followed by a prayer pening Faile, of the Ottawa! Corps. The Male Choir again sangvery feelingly, "Though your sins be as scarlet," after which Mirs, Manwell spoke. After the Songsters had sung, the Commissioner spoke very carriedly. At the close of his adversal, both he and Mrs. Maxwell sang a very appropriate duet. Just as we entered into the Prayer-meeting a young man volunteered, and after a hard struggle got gloriously saved.

On Sunday morning the three orps again united for another Holiss meeting. Our Leader prayed r an outpouring of God's Spirit to manifest, and truly it was. The Commissioner and Mrs. Maxwell Conduct Week-End Meetings in Windsor, When Battalions of Three Border Cities Corps Unite With Joyous Enthusiasm in Vigorous Campaign for Spreading Righteousness

Rousing Open-Airs and Marches-Twenty-Eight Seekers

A DECIDED impetus was given to our work at Whidsor, Ontario, through the visit of the Commissioner and Mrs. Maxwell for the week-end of December 8th and 9th. The large crowds attending all the public gatherings evidenced the interest that had been aroused, and the twenty-eight seekers who knelt at the mercy-seat furnished visible proof of the working of the Holy Spirit on the minds and hearts of the propole.

December 29, 1928

what most impressed the Divi-sional Commander, (Staff-Captain Species) was the mellow with that permeated the meetings and the repermeated the meetings and the responsiveness of the people to the proping urge. The Prayer-meetings were not "hard," as we understand the term in The Army. There was fighting for souls on the part of the leaders and the fishers, there were strugglings against conviction on the part of those to whom it was revealed that they were still unsanctified or unsaved, but there was no long holding back from a decision, and the glad sight of penitent sinners seeking God's pardon and His own people entering into a fresh covenant with Him, warmed the hearts of all cementing them in the bonds of true Christian fellowship.

A Holy Cause

A Holy Cause

There is nothing like fighting side by side for a common object that will so unite people, give them real appreciation for each other's qualities and keep alive enthusiasm for the achievement of victory. Conscious that one is fighting in a holy cause and that the Divine blessing rests upon one's efforts, is also a mighty factor in keeping up one's morale and spirit. Confidence in one's leaders is also of vital importance to the efficiency of a fighting force.

ance to the efficiency of a fighting force.

If all these elements enter into warfare of a destructive kind for earthly objects, how much more do they matter in a spiritual warfare, which may be said to be of both a destructive and a constructive kind; for do we not aim at the destruction of sin in the heart and the reconstruction of a new character! "If any man be in Christ he is a new creature; old things are passed away, behold all things are become new."

New can truly say that the things we have mentioned as essential to successful warfare were very manifest throughout the campaign at

"God Is With Us"

The comrades of the three city Corps united with joyous enthusiasm for the whole week-emi, and under the vigorous and inspired leadership of the Commissioner, fought a good fight for the extension of God's Kingdom and the spread of righteousness.

ness.
From the start to the finish there was a renlization of God's presence in the gatherings, and the chorus introduced in the opening meeting by the Commissioner admirably expressed the prevailing sentiment, and might well have been the marching chorus of the Lord's battalions throughout the campaign. It was as follows:

ollows:

"Our God is with us all the time.

In the morning, when joy bells
chime;
In the evening, when lights are low,
Our God is with us everywhere
we go."

Music and song featured largely in he campaign, the services of the various Bands and Songster Brigades are deserving of the highest praise. The united Bands of the three Corps, under Bandmaster Cobbett, greeted the Commissioner and Mrsch Maxwell with the "Welcomo" march at the initial meeting in the No. I

Hall,
The united Songsters, under Songster-Leader Smith, sang in splendid unison "Guide me, O Thou great Jehovah."

Musical Aid

Other items which helped to make the gathering interesting and profitable were a selection by the No. II Songsters (Songster-Leader Stott); the playing of an Army song-tune by the Nos. II and III Bands, under Bandmaster Lawrenson; and a dashing selection, entitled, "The Warror's Reward," by the No. I Band, which, ending in a burst of triumph, formed a fitting conclusion to the meeting.

meeting.
At the various Open-air meetings

At the various Open-air meetings the Band was a means of attracting large crowds, and full opportunity was taken of this to get in some real red-hot testimonies and exhortations. The marches through the streets were the largest Windsor has seen for some time and no little interest was stirred up.

The singing of a Holiness song by the Bandsonen in the Sunday morning meeting was deeply impressive and undoubtedly helped to deepen the feeling of devotion.

Singing Company's Debut

A Young People's Singing Company, composed of children from the three Corps, made its first public appearance in the afternoon meeting. Led by Sister M. Bean, the young people sang "We're a band of happy children" in a manner that called forth high praise from the Commissioner, who specially commented on the clear enunciation of each word. The No. 1 Band rendered the "Herald of Praise." march, and a selection, entitled, "While the days are going by"; the Nos. II and III Bands, under Captain Cameron, played a brisk march, and the united Songsters sang "Who is on the Lord's side?"

Songsters sang side?"
At night the No. I Songsters sang very impressively a selection, cutilled "Tidings," with the appealing chorus:

"Tidings, such wondrous tidings From God to you I bring, Tidings of wondrous merey Purchased by Calvary's King."

The selection "Angelus," as played by the No. I Band, also made a powerful appeal to the hearts of the hearers. As the strains of the old hymn floated out, there undoubtedly enne to many minds the words:

"And some are sick, and some are sad,

And some have never loved Thee
well,
And some have lost the love they had."

Beyond doubt these lines would apply to every Army congregation. Thank God some of those in the Windsor Auditorium woke up to a realization of their condition and came to the One who could apply the only remedy.

The singing of the Commissioner and Mrs. Maxwell must also be mentioned as a factor in bringing bless-only remedy.

The singing of the Commissioner and Mrs. Maxwell must also be mentioned as a factor in bringing blessing and inspiration to the people. When our Leaders entered the No. 1 Hall on Saturday night the Band struck up the Seotch time of "Annie Laurie." The Commissioner said he would sing a verse—it was the same tune, but the worls were about Jesus. Thus he turned an incident which might merely have been pleasantry to the good of all, in the proper Army way, and thereby captivated the hearts of the people right off.

Jesus-the Theme

Jesus—the Theme

Later on he and Mrs. Maxwell sang together "Friend of all Friends the dearest," and on another occasion "Jesus—He flooded me with melody." The theme of all their sorgs is Jesus; their desire, to lift Him up as the only Savibur.

So much for the part that music and song played in the campaign.

The Commissioner is a great believer in utilizing The Army's musical forces to the utmost in his meetings. He expressed his desires regarding music and singing in The Army in a brief address on Sunday afternoom.

"M.sie is a channel through which afternoon.

"Masie is a channel through which people may be litted Heavenward.
Misused it may send people downward.

"As used in The Army it expresses a heart beating with desire to help people unward. We want all our nusic and singing in The Army to make people think of God."

make people think of God."

We must not underestimate the value of prayer in bringing about victory in a spiritual warfare. The volume of prayer, both private and public, both uttered and unexpressed, that ascended to the Throne on behalf of the campaign was undoubtedly a potent force in driving back the hosts of darkness. Those who led the public gatherings in prayer may be counted on the fingers of one hand. They but uttered audility what hundreds of hearts were broathing out to Heaven. "Prayer is the soul's sineers desire" we are told by one writer, and there was much sineerity and much desire among the Windsor Salvationists for an outpouring of blessing. Those who led the gatherings in utering these desires were the Commissioner, Brigadier Church, Staff-Captain McAulay, Mrs. Staff-Captain Spooner and Sergeant-Major Davis.

Prayer for the King

Prayer for the King

Special prayer was offered for His Majesty the King by the Commis-sioner as the congregation stood reverently to their feet. All then joined in singing the National Anthem.

The Army's International Leader

was affectionately remembered, prayer being offered for his health and welfare.
Ensign Eacott, a Missionary Officer on furlough from China, added his quota to the interesqueness and effectiveness of the eampaign by appearing in Chinese coetume and giving some remarkably-interesting address, on The Army's work in the land of his adoption.

The addresses given by the Com-missioner and Mrs. Maxwell were of the highest spiritual value, and God used them to bring light and liberty used them to bring light and liberty to many struggling souls. In the Holiness meeting Mrs. Maxwell spoke with burning intensity, warning her hearers of listening to the voices of the world and turning aside from the path of strict obedience to God's commands. In appealing for surrenders the Commissioner pointed out the terrible possibility of people not only allowing the death to rob them of God's service.

Hallowed Scenes

A very hallowed Scenes

A very hallowed consecration service concluded this helpful meeting, during which sixteen comrades came forward to the Altar to reconsecrate themselves to God and to gain fresh strength for the war against evil.

Mrs. Maxwell also made a powerful appeal in the night meeting, inviting burdened souls to plunge in Calvary's cleaning flood. The Commissioner's address was a message of hope for the poor sinner who realized his helpless condition and desired a strong Deliverer. He held up Jesus as the Mighty to Save and showed that sin was the destroyer of human peace and happiness.

Under the guidance of Staff-Captain Spooner, the Prayer-battle was entered into with fatth and expension, and ere it closed twelve seekers ton, and ere it closed twelve seekers

The Band rendered a number of splendid marches and selections, including in the program a Bible Picture, entitled "Stilling the Storm," and Meditation "Rockingham," both appropriately illustrated with lantern slides. A charming little pianist was Adeline Audoire! Juva, we get a poignant ginnpse of the brave little Band attached to the Pelantoengan Leper Colony. The Adjutant writes:

"We had just arrived at the Colony after a difficult journey through drenching rains twenty-nine kilometres up hill, down dale, and across rivers. The road had become so slippery that the loaded car slipped in turning a charp bend and advertight-about-faced! A hearty welfone was accorded us, and, following a refreshing cold bath, we were told to be ready sharp for ten, as at 6.30 the Band would be playing.

"We found that the occasion of the Band turning out on such a wet night was the furewell of one of the Officer-Nurses, and the men wanted to show their appreciation of her services to them. Before we reached the appointed 'rendezvous the strains of a spirited march were heard coming out of the jet darkness in the Colony band-stand and sat down on chairs nearby. It was a trilling experience to hear that Salvation music under such conditions. For a moment I shut my eyes and imagined that I was listening to an Army experience to hear that Salvation music under such conditions. For a moment I shut my eyes and imagined that I was listening to an Army Band in England, but the illusion did not last, for as I opened my eyes again I was faced with those dear leger Bandanes—mained for lite, they were, enjoying every note they sent forth from their plated instruments.

"There were long pauses between the pieces, but one can understand

"The Band played again. A selection this time. It was beautiful? I then thought of the International Staff Band records which have reached this country, and I could not help going over to the Adjutant in charge of the Colony and saying: What a great thing it would be to get a great thing it would be to get a record of a couple of pieces from our Leper Band. If this was spread throughout our army world it would thrill all hearts.\"Another march and selection were contributed equally as charming. We then came to the last item rendered in honou of the farewelling Nurse. It was 'God be with yi till we meet again.\"The Bandsmen played it with such feeling that we could almost hear the instruments pronouncing the words 'Till we meet, till we meet, till we meet at Jesus' feet.\"It was unforgettable!

"As is cush-oary, we went up into the band-stand to thank the Bandsmen for the program. There were fourteen in number, all with instruments presented from different sources. One of the sole corner blayers held up his cornet and let me see the inscription: 'From the Leicester I (England) Band.' With pride I told him how my wife and I had been privileged to attend the meeting in which Commissioner Cunningham had betweed and of how the "Fetch em! Fetch em! His cyes shore like fire, the result of excessive drinking, and he danced with every bang our big drum. Finding it impossible to proceed with testimonies, our comrades went down upon their knees. Practice—What it is and What it is Not An Instrumentalist Talks to Instrumentalists

An Instrumentalist Ta Practice does not consist of merely blowing or playing a series of scales, exercises, or tunes. There must be some definite aim behind the effort if good is to be the result.
It is possible to play for two or three hours and yet not do a moment's practice.
Before any playing is commenced the fault to be remedied should be decided upon. Ten minutes spent in correcting a fault is worth more than an hour's haphazard work.
Stick to the point aimed at. Do not miss a part that is troublesome.

Play it alowly first; then quickly. Get it right. Don't give up or post-pone matters because of difficulty. Tackle every fault in turn and master it. That is practice, which spells

it. That is practice, which spells progress.
One of the most common faults amongst us is that of inaccurate phrasing, and no fault reflects greater discredit on both Bandmaster and Bandsmen. Incorrect phrasing is also an injustice to the composer. Ascertain the "musical sentences," and take care not to break them by breathing in wreng places.

BAND ROOM CHATS On Feeling "Fed Up

The Band-Sergeant was on his feet once more, and somehow we were instinctively alert again to hear what was coming. That's the beauty of our dear old Band-Sergeant.

beauty of our dear old Band-Sergeant. He always says something pithy. "Lads, I keep my curs open." (A voice, "'Ere 'Ere.") "Yes! Both of them, and this last week I've heard quite a number of times an ejaculation that is not generally heard in Salvation Army meetings, and which, if you will pardon me, ought never to be on the lips of a Salvation Army Bandsman.

to be on the lips of a Salvation Army Bandsman.

"I'll quote—I'm fed up. I know the weather has been trying, and that we all get our fair ration of trials and difficulties, but surely our duty is to proclaim far and wide the 'great Eternal remedy for all men's ills'? Incidentally we must be queer kind of individuals if we reckon we are going to accomplish our mission while we ourselves are infected with that baneful virus, 'fed-upness,' the serm of which has not yet been isolated.

Why art thou disquieted, O my why art thou disqueted, O my soul? is worth asking. Of course there may be a real reason. This fed-upness, may be a symptom of hidden soul disease. You know how to treat that, What I'm referring to is not in that class.

Here's the antidote. Rejoice thon in God and count your blessings! Get on with the business. Do a hit extra—at home as well as in the Corps, and please don't use that expression again. It's too infectious." It was good counsel, and since hearing it we have proved that the "fed-up feeling" is largely a habit.

OBBYMA ORPHAN. ARTHUR E. COPPING

CHAPTER IV Shadowed and Shunned — A Policeman's Ordeal

Crdeal

ROM the British army, on completing his term of service, "Nobby" carried an "exemplary" character into the Metropolitan Police. When off duty and in plain clothes, he naturally attended Open-air meetings of The Salvation Army in East Dulwich, where he was stationed. But two friendly inspectors, concerned for the interest of the force, deprecated and forbade such use of his leisure. One added:

adon't take these matters too much to heart. I go to church myself, and I assure you half the congregation are there only to show off their Sunday clothes."

I go to charten "yesti, and I assure you man becongregation are there only to show off their Sunday clothes." You don't tell me, sir," faltered "Nobby," "what the other half are there for," and he withward the tell me, sir, the series of touch now with worldly wisdom, he took his religion, himself, and everybody else, quitig seriously.

"Nobby" dismally concluded that to defy authority was out of the question; then occurred one of those experiences which have been like lamps lit along the path of his later life. As divisional delegate, he attended a Christian Police Association conference at Cambridge, where one service lifted his spiritual perception into a higher phase of devotion and Joy. Amid this entrancement, the Voice came, bidding him testify further and at Open-air meetings.

" Christ, or Your Job?"

Presently poor P.C. 201 was thinking of his cherished wife and home, and reflecting that minu you are discharged for insubordunation from one job, it is usually difficult to get another. Coming to realize, indeed, that his little earthly paradise stood in dire jeopardy, he tried to believe that the message was a snare set by the Evil One. But his soul knew better than that.

So "Nobby" appeared in the ring, though under such an intense emotional strain that, thought and speech proving at first impossible, he began by singing "I'm only a sinner saved by grace"; then broke mony that many listeners

"I'm only a sinner saved by grace"; then broke into so passionate a testimony that many listeners were moved to tears.

On the following Sunday inorning, being again off duty, he once more joined his Army comrades at their Open-air devotions, when the onlookers included a uniformed comrade of another class. Afterwards, whenever "Nobby" figured in the circle of Salvationists, he found a watchful and sometimes note-taking policeman in close and continuous attendance.

On one memorable occasion the authorities were represented, not by one policeman, but by two sergeants. Influential and contributed in the continuous attendance.

Once more on stepping into the ring he found himself unable to collect his thoughts. "So," he recalls, "I began by singing three verses of 'I am going home to Glory in the good old-fashioned way." Then I sent my testimony ringing through those streets."

Boycotted

From that day, in addition to the "foxing," he experienced the misery of being boycotted. His superiors gave him only curt commands; no share of the coveted inside duty was allotted to him; and the other constables shunned 201 as one who was under a cloud.

was under a cloud.

Then came an occasion of night duty when, lurking in a dark corner of his lonely beat, "Nobby" awaited the routine visitor and while he stood thinking, the Voice bade him speak to that visitor on matters of the soul—a formidable step for him to contemplate.

"Serreant." he was presently with the two met. "I've been thinking what a wonderful power for good you might be if you were converted to God."

Instead of the expected scornful rejoinder, there came from the sergeant an apologetic confession that, in a family of six, he alone had failed to become a Salvation Army Officer. The sergeant went on: "You know, 'Nobby' (the first time any of them had called him 'Nobby' for nearly a year), all that business of reporting about you is finished."

"Nobby asked what he meant.
"Well, for the past twelve months," said the sergeant, "we have had to send the superintendent a weekly report about you, stating whether you had attended any Open-air meetings, and saying if you spoke, prayed, or sang. But by to-night's mail a letter has come from the superintendent saying that if you live up to what you profess, he approves of your worshipping in your own way." So ended the menace that had so long hung over "Nobby's" little home; and his heart was full of gratitude.

COLONEL ADBY AT WOODSTOCK

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock comrades felt it an honor to have Colonel Adby, the Territorial Young People's Secretary, spend a week-end with them. The Young People's Secretary, spend a week-end with them. The train by which the Colonel travelled from Toronto was late, but Commandat Louis Smith kept things moving until the visitor arrived. After a few words of greeting by Adjutant Kitson the Colonel immediately took hold, and with song end story kept the interest at a high pitch to the call of the meeting.

A large crowd gathered for the Holiness meeting and all were blessed as the Colonel spoke convincingly of the possibility of a life of complete victory for all. In the aftermoon the Colonal spoke of the early days of The Army and sang songs of long ago. After an unusually large Openir in the evening a powerful meeting in the Citadel resulted in five seekers at the mercy-seat.

The Colonel was assisted during the day by Staff-Captain Wright, and both visited the Company Meeting and addressed a special meeting of Young People's Workers as well.

COLONEL AND MRS. JACOBS
AT WALKERVILLE

Walkerville was the seene of a week-end campaign on November 24th-25th conducted by those grand old warriors, Colonel and Mrs. Jacobs, who were assisted by Staff-Captain and Mrs. Spooner. The Colonel's Bible address and Mrs. Jacob's personal testimony were blessedly instructive and helpful. Staff-Captain and Mrs. Spooner helped greatly with their singing.

The result of the day's fighting was six seekers for Salvation and three for Holiness.

Training Garrison Cadets' Doings

less to say, it was crowded to the doors.

Folks were evidently delighted to have the opportunity of helping the Training Garrison finances by making purchases and also of being able to look over the Training Garrison. Cubicles, class rooms, every nook and cranny were inspected by the large crowd present. Relatives of Cadets saw where John and Mary were preparing for their life's work.

During the evening two instructive lectures were given by Ensign Encott, of Chim. His talks were packed full of facts concerning The Army's labors amongst the people of Chima. There passed rapidly in review on the screen scenes of Corps activities in Peking and other centres, porridge kitchens, with the crowds of hungry folk lined up ready for the only ment they would got that day, motor-boot trips off the besten track—who will forget the ple-ture of the octogenarian giving the youthful Energy an admonition to spend himself for the Salvation of the youth of China? Nearly four hundred people listened to the addresses, the Lecture Hall being crowded.

Lieut.-Colonel Snunders expressed the thanks of all to the Ensign. His vote of thanks also included Rendsmen Bray. Lonsborough. McArthur and Young a Toronto Temple quartet which supplemented the Ensign's effort with various musical items, and also Ensign Ellis, of Lippincott, who directed the stereoption views.

A partnership program by the Lip-

A partnership program by the Lippincott Songsters and the Cadett Band, given at the Lippincott Corps, was ably directed by the Training Principal. A good time was spent. Ensign Ellis very kindly arranged a tasty repast for the Cadets' Bend previous to the Festival. Mrs. Ensign Ellis and the Sister comrades who assisted deserve thanks for their kind services.

Following the veckend meetings, conducted at Byng Avenue Corps, the men Cadets on Monday might did their best to maintain interest and to help the Corps. The Openairs were of great cheer to the people, and inside Lieut-Colonel Snunders presided over a real Army program given by the Cadets Band, under Captain Lorimer.

The "Rendy-for-Anything" Brigade of Cadets lived up to its name in splendld style on a recent afternon while proceeding to their training Corps—Lippincott. A ledy collapsed on the street and the Cadets at ouce went to the rescue. Carrying her into a nearby house, a dector was called. Sergeant Smith, assisted by Cadet Smith, rendered First-gid until the arrival of the doctor.

arrival of the doctor.

Mucb good work has been accomplished by the Cadets during their course of visitation.

An old sentleman suffering from heart trouble, who has been visited regularly, came to one of the meetings accompanied by his wife. This is the first occasion for years that he has entered a place of worship.

Two of the Cadets visited a home where the occupants were mourning the loss of a loved one. They were the means of comfort and help. Before leaving one of the mourners said to them. "It is fine to see you young men giving your lives to such spiendid work."

While visiting two men Cadeta called on a man who would not allow them to enter to pray or read the Bible. So the Cadeta offered prayer kneeling on the doorsten.

On another occarion two Cadeta found easy access to a home because a ledy across the street had been telling of the blessings she had received from the Cadeta' visitation.

Festival which came as a The Festival which came as a stirring finale to a "top notch" Band week-ond, and over which the Commissioner presided, proved no exception, and with an evening's program of such quality and from such an accomplished Band one felt sorry for those who missed the occasion.

This was the Commissioner's last public gathering before sailing for England, as Adjutant Jones, who, on behalf of the Corps expressed deep appreciation for our leader's presence, reminded us.

The Band had prepared a wellvaried program. Apart from the pureity instrumental music which received such skilful interpretation, there were some highly interesting incidentals.

"The Captain Maxwell rendered in telling manner two monologues, one, "The Soul's Quest," which she told us expressed something of her own spiritual experience, and the other—"for the little people present"—a piece entitled, "The night nursery." Then there was a vocal solo by Songster Mrs. Irwin (hetter known to many as Songster Grace Gooch.) She sang for us "The story of Love." Brother Watson also gave us the old favorite, "The Veteran," and we must also mention the instrumental solos of Bandsmen Gare and Irwin.

Gare and Irwin.

The Commissioner—who was accompanied by Mrs. Maxwell, who save the Bible reading, and also Brigadier Burrows, who opened the meeting—in his remarks stressed the value of Army music in lifting people heavenward. Amid all the influences which tend to take men downward, he said, music, coming from the heart that is right, has an elevating influence and can be of notent service in leading men and women to live better lives.

There were some solemn moments men and women to live better lives. There were some solemn moments during the meeting as the Commissioner spoke of "the shadow hanging over the Empire on account of the serious illness of the King." Before calling upon the large audience to sing the National Anthem, our leader prayed that God "would remember our Gracious Sovereign," and that "fit be Thy will, Thou will put Thy hand upon liin in healing."

During the evening the Commis-sioner presented to the Band two new Triumphonic instruments—a cuphon-ium and horn, and took occasion to voice appreciation of the service of Triumphonic instruments—a cuplion-ium and horn, and took occasion to voice appreciation of the service of Bandmaster Pearce, to whose spleudid devotion and work the Band so large-ly owes its present high standing.

THE FIELD SECRETARY

Visits Moncton

The visit of the Field Secretary in Monoton brought great pleasure to the local Soldiery. The Colonel, who knew the battleground well, having been the Divisional Commander here, put up a splendid fight against the forces of sin. He was backed up by faith and prayer, and had the active cooperation of the whole Corps in every meeting. A great battle for souls was fought on Sunday evening when, after a great struggle, one who had been a backslider for sixteen vears eam home to God amid much ears came home to God amid much cing.

The Colonel's lecture on Monday evening on the "Lights and Shadows of the Old Lend" brought to a close n splendid week-end of Salvation warfare. Special features of the meetings were the spuntaneous testimonies and the splendid way in which the Colonel's message gripped the people.—"Old Timer."

MRS. LIEUT.-COMMISSIONER MAXWELL Conducts Opening of a Trio of Sales of Work, Arranged by Busy Home Leaguers, and Presides over Cadets' Night at Parliament Street

A SPLENDID number gathered for the opening of the Lisgar Street Home League Sale, on Wednesday, December 5th. Mrs. Lt.-Commissioner Maxwell was supported at this event by a number of Staff and Field Officers. Field Officers this event by a number of starl and ried Officers.

The opening song was lined out by Mrs. Colonel Taylor. After prayer on behalf of the League's work, by Adjutant McLean, Mrs. Staff-Captain Pitcher gave out another song. A concise resume of the year's work was given by the Assistant Hone League Secretary, who also spoke well of the faithful efforts of the members. The League's membership now numbers thirty-four, and this splendid band of devoted women are a valuable asset to the Corns.

At Toronto I
The spirit of Salvation optimism which is so apparent in the Toronto I Corps is also manifested in the Home League. This important branch has made creditable progress during the past year, under the direction of Secretary Mrs. Tuck and Treasurer Mrs. Covey. Ensign and Mrs. Warrander are delighted with the success of the League, fully realizing its worth to the Corps.

The law of adaptation has been considered in the matter of selecting the time for the League's weekly gathering. This—contrary to custom—is held in the evening. Thus many of the sister comrades who are em-

She was supported by Mrs. Colonel Adley, Mrs. Lt-Colonel Moore, Mrs. Major Bristow and Mrs. Ensign Warrander. Following a brief service of song and prayer, Mrs. Maxwell was introduced to the riembers and friends gathered by Mrs. Colonel Addy.

During the course of her talk, in which she stressed the "help-one-another" spirit, which every Home Leaguer should exhibit, she remarked, "This is our duty. We are helping to build characters. We must assist and train the mother, so that she in turn may bring up the children in the best nossible way. Thus will we be turn may bring up the children in the best possible way. Mrs. Maxwell gave to the splendid rowd of women assembled some corth-while advice culled from her of experience.

In the evening the Mount Dennis Band provided a program on behalf of their sisters of the Home League, which no doubt assisted greatly in making the Sale the success which it was.

With the Cadets

Mrs. Maxwell presided over a program given in the Parliament Street Citadel on Wednesday, December 12th, by the women Cadets. There was a good audience present to listen to the embryo-Officers,

Brantford for the Young People's Annual, which was a most enjoyable Annual, which was a most enjoyable and profitable oceasion. The attendances were above the average, and the Colonel's solo singing and revival addresses were of a most inspirational character. The Young People's Workers were greatly encouraged, souls were saved, believers made fresh consecration, and the interests of God's Kingdom were furthered. TERRITORIAL PARS

Congratulations to Mrs. Commandant Woolfrey and Mrs. Commandant Trickey, who have been admitted to the Long Service Order.

We regret to report that Adjutant Ashby, Lippineott's newly-appointed Officer, and Captain Chapman, of the Toronto East Divisional Head-quarters, are on the sick list.

Our sympathy is extended to Captain Everitt, of North Sydney, who recently received word that his mother had passed away in the Old Land.

Though the flesh be weak, and though eighty years have passed over her head, the glow of battle siltnes in her eyes, and her spirit is still youthful and still nggressive. Her name has been indelibly engraven upon the hearts of many in Peterboro who have been cheered and helped in the past whilst she served as League of Mercy Secretary. Now her soul exults in a life well spent. But illness is not confined to the oged. One comrade—Sister Mrs. Leag, Jun—is comparatively speaking, but on the threshold of life, and she, though suffering intensely at times, told Mrs. Henry that her faith in God was unshaken.

A STRONGHOLD OF SALVATIONISM

A Day's Meeting, Full of Joy and Helpfulness, Conducted by the CHIEF SECRETARY and MRS. HENRY at Peterboro

ETERBORO is a stronghold of a Salvationism! Its Soldiery are intensely practical in their sympathy, Generously do they cooperate with the Salvationists in their labors for the betterment of social conditions and the moral welfare of the people at large. They exhibit great faith in The Army's ability to deal with such problems. This is evidenced oy the fact that the local Rotary Club has decided this year to abandon the method of Chr'tmas Cheer distribution which formerly held good, and place the relief allocation at the disposal of the Corps Officer, Ensign Green, who will supervise the receipt's Christmas Rediet work!

Into this congenial atmosphere of sympathetic cooperation came the Chief Secretary and Mrs. Henry and Major and Mrs. Ritchie for the weekend of December 8th and 9th. They were given a typical Peterboran welcome in the Saturday night meeting.

A happy spirit of Salvation joy wclcome in the Saurinay moding.

A happy spirit of Salvation joy characterized this gathering, and close attention was accorded the Colonel's forceful exhortations. A goodly number attended the 7 o'elock knee-drill on Sunday morning, and the day began with one soul at the Altar the day began with one soul at the Altar.

"A time of teaching" would per-haps be the most appropriate descrip-tion of the Holiness meeting. There was a spirit of quiet reverence mani-fested as the Colonel spoke on the vital issues of the Christian experi-ence. One comrade sought anew the power of the Holy Choet.

In the afternoon the Chief Secretary gave to a large and splendidly representative audience his lecture.

A resume of Australia's history, her ready reply to the Call to Arms in 1914, in conjunction with other units of our great Empire, the heroic part played by the Anzaes at Gallipoli and in France were high-lights in the address. Incidents portraying The Salvation Army's work of love among the boys, with here and there a touching tale, replete with pathos and tragedy, caused the hearts of all to warm toward the unselfish heroes and heroines who toiled so nobly for the men who fought in the Wall.

The lecture was followed by a few well-chosen words of appreciation by Mayor Denne.

The final nuceting of the day constituted a record for crowds! There were hungry souls present, and the Salvation story was given to them faithfully and forcibly, Major Ritchie, who, with Mrs. Ritchie, rendered valuable service during the weekend, struck a happy note aneat the ectainty of Gospel verities when he declared at the beginning of the meeting, "I know where I stand!" The Chief Secretary's address—a potent, positive message—went far to convince all that Salvation lies not in the realm of myth, but is a mighty fact!

in the realm of any and fact!

Ere the meeting closed two seekers knelt at the merey-seat.

The Peterboro Band and Songsters rendered efficient service in each seating.

WOMEN OF PETERBORO Are Addressed by Mrs. Colonel

Are Addressed by Mrs. Colonel

Henry

Keen interest was aroused in Peterboro when it became known that Mrs. Colonel Henry was to address a women's meeting on Monday evening, December 10th. Between two and three hundred women availed themselves of the opportunity, and practically every denomination and practically every denomination and society in the city was represented, in response to letters of invitation sent out by Mrs. Ensign Green.

A bright and varied program provided by the women Songsters preeeded Mrs. Henry's introduction by Mrs. Major Ritchie.

Mrs. Henry was accorded a hearty welcome and great interest was manifested in her words.

Graphically she portrayed the potent influence which love exerts in the world?

"And the greatest triumph of love was when the Saviour was nailed to the cruel tree!"

She dealt with human love, displayed reciprocally between mother and child. A better understanding of the young people by their elders was urged. "Crowds of folk to-day are condemning the young people, but hefore we condemn, let us love them and guard them from the birds of prey which are ever alert to destroy soul and body."

The strong drink menace was disclossed in all its hideousness, and a soul and body."

The strong drink menace was disclosed in all its hideousness, and a clarion call sounded out for all women to assume their responsibilities in fighting this evil. The appalling hold which the drink demon is obtaining upon many youths should be sufficient to arouse every mother from lethargy to take an active stand against the evil. "Stand boldly against the drink," Mrs. Henry picaded.

A message full of such wholesome picaded.

A message full of such wholesome advice could not but prove helpful to all who heard it, and the words of hearty appreciation given Mrs. Henry by Mrs. Ensign Green fully voiced the sentiments, we believe, of every woman present.

A comrade wishes to learn where-abouts of James Henry Beck, who at one time was a Lieutenant stations of at Brampton, Ont. Anyone knowing where he may be found please com-nunicate with Colonel Taylor, the Field Secretary, at Territorial Head-ounters.

DIVISIONAL COMMANDERS FAREWELI

Meetings in Hamilton, Toronto West and Montreal Attended by Large Gatherings of Comrades and Friends to Wish Farewelling Leaders Godspeed

Leaders Carewall MeAmmond conducted farewell meetings at three Hamilton Corps on Sunday, Devember 6th; No. If in the unorning, No. III in the afternoon and No. I at night. Many warm expressions of affection for the departing Divisional Commander were volced in all of these meetings. On Monday, the Staff and Field Officers gathered for n council and a farewell meeting at night. Mrs. McAmmond's presence after her Illness was a source of great pleasure to all. The Band and Songsters helped to make the meeting interesting, and several Officers and Locals spoke words of appreciation of the service of the farewelling Divisional Commander and his wife.

Mrs, Lieut. Colonel McAmmond said Mrs. Lieut. Colonel McAmmond said they had only done their duty as Soldlers, anything less was untilinkable, and promised fathfulness and devotion for the future. The Colonel was very grateful to God for all the vicries won and loud in his proise of the comrades who had helped so fathfully. He bespoke the same loyalty for their successors, and pledged himself to continued devotion to duty.

Brigadier and Mrs. Burrows on Sunday, December 9th, conducted farewell meetings at Lisgar Street, which is the Corp's from which they have Soldiered thring their stay in Toronto. The Divisional Staff assisted in the meetings. In the Holiness meeting Capital Turner soloed and Major Sparks gave the Bible address. In the afternoon the Young People were very much to the front the Band and Songsters also lathing part, a number of Officers were present in Band and Songsters also taking lurt. A number of Orticers were present in the night meeting to extend good wishes to their farewelling contrades, heigodier Bloss and Band-Sergeant Williamson both spoke very lightly of Brigadier and Mrs. Burrows having known them for many years. The Brigadier and his wife both spoke, thanking their comrades for the kind words spoken, and in the Prayer-meeting which followed four seekers came to the mercy-seat.

eame to the mercy-seat.

The final farewell took place on Wednesday evening, when Officers from all over the Division were present. Many kild words and good wishes were expressed and the farewelling Officers were strong in their appreciation of all the kindness recleved from their comrades and their gratitude to God for His goodness.

Eighty Officers, representing all phases of Army work in the Metropolls gathered for a farewell ten, with Brigadier and Mrs. Maedonald. Later representative speakers referred to the help received through their association with the Brigadier and his association with the Brigadler and his wife.

Final farewells were voiced in the No. I Citadel an hour later. Adjutant Keith ploted the meeting and referred at length to the Brigadier as a "straight-up-and-down" man, and one with whom it was a pleasure and inspiration to work. The Band and Songsters contributed materially to the interest of the meeting by their selections. Sergeant-Major Colley told that this occasion was the sixth larewell of the Brigadier he had taken part in, each time being able to speak well of him; Adjount Sanford spoke of the farewelling Officers as leaders with conviction and purpose; Lient-Colonel Tudge gave a thoughtful and remulsiscent address; ond Mrs. Adjutant Keith paid special tribute to Mrs. Macdonald's life and influence. "Mizpoh" was the word and thought expressed by both Brigadier and Mrs. Macdonald in their final words of farewell. Bandsman (Ur.) I. Miceionaid remains in Montreal where he is appreciated for his unstinted service to the Citadel Band and the Kingdom.

LEAGUE NEWS FROM FAR AND NEAR

AND NEAK

A large number of reports to hand show that the Home Leagues of the Territory are busy these days; Sales of Work are being held at many Corps with very profitable results to all concerned. At Perth (Captain Clarke, Lieutenant Goodail) the Sale was greatly helped by the presence of the Smith's Falls Band, which rendered a good program and contributed very materially to the success of the occasion.

On December 7th Long Branch (Captain Smith, Lieutenant Clarke) Sale was opened by Mrs. Major Sparks. There was a good attendance and Toronto 1 Band provided en an joyable program.

Mrs. Major Ritchie opened the annual Sale at Oshawa (Field-Major and Mrs. Oshourn). The Hall was prettily decorated, and refreshments were served with musical accompaniment. The financial results were very satisfactor. Napanee (Ensign Tucker, Lieutenant Payne) comrades provided a special program on the occasion of a Home Lengue Shower, at which articles were contributed to be sold later. Lengue members provided light refreshment.

The St. Catharines (Field-Major and Mrs. Winsman) Lengue size.

The St. Catharines (Field-Major and Mrs. Withman) Law State Hamilton III recently and provided a program at the Sale of that Corps. Their own. Sale was held on December 5th and was opened by Mrs. J.D. Wright, the wife of the city's chief magistrate. At the final meeting of the year the "Talent money" was received from each member with the increase. This was a new venture and was very successful. The year's report showed good progress. Rowntree (Captains G. and B. Keeling) had Mrs. Colonel Taylor to open their Sale, and Danforth League members put on an interesting program. A very successful effort resulted.

Well snoken, sir! The indomitable Ensign's superb faith for an ultimate Peterboro supremacy has a sound basis, too, for the staunch Brigade of Bustling Boomers, under the direction of Publications-Sergeant Youngs, is in insuperable force, well versed in the noble art of "CTy" booming.

The Brig.de numbers about eighteen members; the majority are young folk—enthroisastic Corps Cadets, Guards, etc. They, with their compatriots throughout the Territory, deserve unstinted praise!

Tireless Workers

The Publications-Sergeamt and his busy little wife are tireless workers. In fact, that is why they came to The Army! Brother Youngs deedled that The Army presented more opportunities for service than his previous place of worship, and consequently a few years ago he joined our ranks. For two years he has filled his present position, and finds to his bean satisfaction that his desire for active service is amply satisfied.

THE FIELD SECRETARY At Barrie

At Barrie

On Saturday and Sunday, November 24th and 25th, Barrie comrades enjoyed a visit from Colonel and Mrs. Taylor. After our regular Openair on Saturday night a large crowd gathered in the Citadel for a Praise meeting. The comrades extended a very hearty welcome to Colonel and Mrs. Taylor, who both responded, and a helpful time was spent.

Sunday morning Holiness meeting was a very profitable one. Conducted by Mrs. Taylor, who pave an inspiring and impressive address, it concluded with four souls surrendering to God. We saw our visitors again at the Company Meeting, where the Colonel enrolled two Junior Soldiers and also dedicated the children of Brother and Sister Baxter and Profit and ated.

The Sunday night meeting was conducted by the Calonel, who delivered a very forceful address. After a well-fought Prayer-meeting one societ laid his all upon the Altar. Conviction was keenly felt by many, and the Colonel and Mrs. Taylor's visit will he long remembered by Eurrie comrades.—C.C.Smittz,

GLEANINGS FROM THE MEN'S SOCIAL DEPARTMENT

Eight thousand jobs in three hundred and sixty-five days—an average of nearly twenty-two a day—were provided by The Salvation Army last year for the workless men of Toronto and district. Four hundred and fifty of these were permanent situations. Could you add to this the figures from other centres of Army work throughout the Territory, the whole would present a total which would testify to the value of this branch of would present a total which would testify to the value of this branch of

SHERBOURNE STREET (Toronto) HOSTEL

HOSTEL
Field-Major Sheard has been laid aside for several days, but is now back at his work.
The Major has found it necessary to provide accommodation for an extra twenty beds in this Institution.
The Hostel is in great demand by the "better-off" class of working men who are seeking homely and comfortable lodgings.

TORONTO INDUSTRIAL

In Toronto, the Industrial netivities, which last year provided temporary employment for scores of out-of-works, are being moved for the time being to a new structure in the rear if the Augusta Avenue Working Men's Home. Thus the construction work, which will shortly be under way in connection with the new Industrial plant at Richmond Street, will not interfere with the usual Winter help given the unemployed.

Major White, ussisted by Communidant Bradbury and Adjutant Harpiry, conducted a very successful service at this Institution on Sunday evening last, when one man gave his least to God.

KINGSTON PENITENTIARY

KINGSTON PENITENTIARY
Major McElhiney, assisted by Commandant and Mrs. Jordan and the Kingston Band, held a service on Sunday last with the inmates of this Institution. The festival given by the Band was much appreciated by the prisoners. The music and song, all of which was well chosen, cannot but result in some spiritual good.

The official Chaplain, the Rev. Hedley Smith, attended and closed the service in prayer. The officials, from the Warden down, were exceptionally considerate in doing everything possible to make our service profitable.

Commandant A. G. Smith, of Halifux, writes to say that in connection with the Centenary Campaign he has nad a good start with the prison meetings; at the most recent of these five men professed to find Salvation, and seven asked to be prayed for.

The Trade Department has dispatched to Commandant Tuck a supply of books as prizes for the children of the Prison Gunrus who form a splendid Young People's Corps

These young folks have in Commandant and Mrs. Tuck real guardians. The Company Meetings on Sundays compare favorable with any.

GUELPH REFORMATORY
In our last notes an error appeared in the third paragraph. This should have read, "Elight others signified that they were now serving the Lord."

THE CHRISTMAS NUMBER

THE CHRISTMAS NUMBER
From an article in the Lindsay
"Post" we take the following extracts:
"Something very much in the nature of a Canadian Institution is the Christmas number of the "War Cry" published by The Salvation Army.
This year the Christmas "War Cry" is it anything a much butter looking production than its predecessors asi is a most altractively gotten up Christmas message.
The nages are filled with timely Christmas stories, carrying through them all the militant evanuelism that characterizes The Army in its work.
